TESTING BEGAN LAST WEEK of the Portland-Montreal pipeline that used to carry oil. It will begin to carry natural gas from Canada to the U.S., beginning this winter. A testing company from Illinois was pressure-testing the West Bethel section of the line last week, pumping in nitrogen under pressure to test for leaks. The company is also replacing some valves. (See story and map in the Sept. 2 issue of The Citizen.) (Photo by Jeanne Boehma)

Two new ski shops to open near skiway

Two new ski shops are expected to open near the Sunday River skiway in time for the 1987-88 ski season.

The larger shop is a Jack Frost outlet, and will be located on the skiway access road, in Newry.

The smaller shop will be located on the Sunday River Road, in Bethel, and will be a rental shop. The owners of this shop are Bouchard's Ski Shops, of Haverhill, Mass., and Salem, N.H., and Great American Ski Rental, of North Conway, N.H.

Groundbreaking for the three-story building to house the new Jack Frost shop took place last week. Andover Log Homes is the contractor and Ken Stalley, of Jackson, N.H., is the architect.

On the first level of the shop will be ski rental and repairs. The second level will offer ski and equipment and ski clothing, and will also house the manager's office, an employees' lounge, and toilets.

The third level will be left unfinished for the time being but will have plumbing and electrical service. Future plans call for the space to be turned into four bedrooms for employees, with bathroom and kitchen facilities.

The existing two-bedroom cottage on the property—the former Randy Baker property—will be refurbished and rented out.

The new shop will have 14 employees; the manager will be Dennis Doyon, who presently manages the shop at Barker Mountain. That shop will continue to serve skiers at Sunday River, with rentals and repairs, even after the new shop opens for business. Jack Frost also operates the ski shop at Mt. Abram Ski Slopes.

Craft courses offered

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer several special credit courses especially oriented to the holiday season. These courses focus on projects that are completed in one week and that introduce students to specific craft techniques.

Holiday Crafts is taught by Sheila Head at her West Bethel home, with a hands-on class that will include special craft projects for Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. Students will take home a finished project each week and all projects will be introduced at the first session and supply lists will be provided. Taught in past years during the day, this course will be given on Tuesday evenings this year, starting Sept. 22.

A series of Christmas Craft workshops will be taught by Sue Wight, Sue Bowie, Audrey Brooke, and Debby Mills at Telstar on Thursday evenings in October. These workshops, offered on consecutive weeks, are self-contained and should be registered for individually. Sue Wight and Sue Bowie will be making Conchus Dolls on Oct. 15 and Conchus Wreaths on Oct. 22. Audrey Brooke and Debby Mills will teach the making of Grapesque Wreaths on Oct. 29, and Stained Glass Christmas Cards on Nov. 5. Project costs will vary with each workshop.

There will be an eight-week Christmas Craft class in Andover, taught by Joyce Frazier at her home on Tuesday evenings. Four different projects will be made, including a puffy Christmas wreath, a Christmas tree table decoration, Mr. and Mrs. Santa ornaments, and a final project to be selected by the class. A supply list is available from Mrs. Frazier.

To enroll in these courses or in any of the 70 courses or programs listed in the Fall Course Guide, call the Adult Education office, at 824-2730.

Each section of the test had numerous sub-sections. The only sub-sections where local students scored above state averages were in Earth/Space Science (scoring 270 compared to the state average of 250), Application of Science (scoring 275 compared to the state average of 250), and Economics—within the Social Studies section (scoring 275 compared to the state average of 245). One of the lowest scores recorded by local students on any sub-section was U.S. history—within the Social Studies section, where local students scored 195 compared to the state average of 240.

Among the 97 local students of 114 registered in the 11th grade taking the exams, 84 percent were girls while 46 percent were boys. The girls did markedly better than the boys.

Work begins on largest housing project to date

Marathon Steel Co., the developer of the planned Mill Brook Estates, set right to work on the 60-unit project last week. The developers received their subdivision permit from the Bethel Planning Board last Wednesday night, following a public hearing. The vote was 4-0.

About 40 people turned out for the public hearing and there was no stated opposition to the project, which, if completed as planned, would make it the largest residential development to date in Bethel.

It is a planned unit development of 15 buildings, set on the property at the former Douglas trailer park, off Bridge Street. Each building will contain four 2-bedroom units. A Marathon officer estimated the total cost of the project at $1.5 million.

In other matters at last Wednesday's Planning Board meeting, The Bethel Inn's John Laban informed the board he would be presenting a plan for an additional 10 condos in the Fairway Condominium project bordering the golf course. This would entail constructing an additional building.

The project as approved—by the Planning Board and the state Department of Environmental Protection—consists of 40 units. Mr. Laban said demand for the condos, which are under construction, has been strong.

Mr. Laban will present formal plans to the board and the DEP at a later date. If approved, the addition to the project would not be undertaken until next summer, he said.

Solution for fire dump discussed at meeting

About 35 residents of Albany met Monday night at the town hall to discuss the local fire dumps and other problems. The meeting was called by the Albany Improvement Association.

The two fire dumps are at Gordon's Tree Farm, off the Crocker Pond Road, and have caused unease among residents because of the chance of fire or pollution. The Gordon's reported at the meeting that they are looking into the possibility of chipping the tires and then burying them at an appropriate landfill.

In other matters, the group elected three delegates and three alternates to sit in on the County Commission's budget discussions. The delegates are Dave Salway, Jim Perkins and Tim Kavanagh. The alternates are Bob Anderson, Robert White and Carlton Rugg.

The group decided to look further into the matter of appointing a liaison committee to work with the state Land Use Regulation Commission on matters affecting unorganized territories. There was a question on how much authority the liaison group would have and how much legal liability it might have to shoulder.

The selection again discussed making some improvements to the municipal building.

The board reminds the residents of Newry of the special town meeting scheduled for Sept. 21, at 7 p.m., in the municipal building. The major question will be to see if the town will vote to accept the draft Comprehensive Plan, to purchase a new truck, and to accept a new Planning Board ordinance.

A letter was received from the Town of Woodstock asking for a copy of Newry's draft Comprehensive Plan. (Woodstock has set up a committee to draft a plan for that town.)

Student applications for any interested 12-14 year olds are now available at the school main offices and should be returned by Sept. 30, 1987. A number of activities for the applicants are being planned this fall with final student selection by Jan. 4, 1988.

As I see it...

On Sept. 17, 200 years ago, the 43 delegates who remained in Philadelphia at the Constitutional Convention voted on the question of forwarding the document to the Congress for its approval. Forty of them agreed to do so, and the Constitution began the process of ratification by the States.

Today, celebrating 200 years under Constitutional government, our reverence for the document is so strong that we find it hard to believe that three of the delegates refused to sign it or that State ratification in many parts of the country was a matter of hotly contested politics.

But the Constitution, in its own time, was a controversial document, so it is not surprising that its meaning and purpose remain controversial today.

In 1787, for instance, the Convention was generally opposed to adding an explicit Bill of Rights to the document. Many argued that the new national government would not have the power to infringe on any individual's rights. Others were concerned that a list of individual rights could lead to the denial of any rights that were not explicitly listed.

The Convention finally sent the document to the Congress in New York without a Bill of Rights. But in the process of ratification, so many states conditioned their acceptance of the document on the addition of a Bill of Rights that drafting this became the first order of business for the first Congress elected under the new Constitution.

The Bill of Rights that finally took shape as the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, includes some provisions that have never had to be invoked, such as the Third Amendment ("No Soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house, without the Consent of the Owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law."). It also includes provisions which remain hotly controversial today, such as the language barring "cruel and unusual punishments" or forbidding the Congress to enact laws "respecting an establishment of religion."

Americans debated then, as they have ever since, what the meaning of the different provisions was. Early tests of Constitutional language often focused on the "commerce clause" which gave Congress the power to regulate commerce between the states. Individuals involved in shipping and trade sought to pursue their livelihood free of local and state interference. States sought to preserve their rights.

The focus of Constitutional controversy has shifted over the centuries, reflecting both the development of the nation in size and wealth and the elaboration of the idea of personal rights.

Contemporary controversy over the meaning and reach of the language in the Constitution reflects the fact that the document remains a vital element of our system. The bicentennial celebration is an opportunity for each of us to refresh our understanding of the Constitution and to take our part in the two centuries of debate that have attended the document since it was first drafted.

'Exercise' classes popular part of adult ed. program

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education will offer a variety of opportunities for adults to increase their physical fitness through exercise. For the first time according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell, exercise classes will be offered by adult education in Andover, Bethel, and Bryant Pond.

Exercise Workout, taught by Pat Morey will lead students through a program of exercise emphasizing fitness and flexibility at Telstar on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30-7:30. It is possible to enroll for one, two or three sessions per week. Morey is fresh from a week-long Exercise Instructor Training at the University of Maine at Farmington this summer and plans to include exciting new ideas in her classes this fall. Pre-registration is required for this class and those enrolling will be asked to complete a brief survey to assist the instructor in planning the sessions.

The new Woodstock School will be the site of Exercise to Music on Monday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 8 with Linda Best as the instructor. This class combines slow stretching, aerobics and relaxation exercises.

Carol Emery will be back at the Andover Elementary School on Mondays and Thursdays with an Aerobics class from 7 to 8, followed by Aerobics from 8 to 9. Students may enroll for both classes or just one.

Other options for exercise on a regular basis in adult education include Adult Co-ed Volleyball on Wednesday nights from 7-9 in the Telstar gym. This popular activity will feature team competition, with players assigned to specific throughout the seven week fall season, followed by play-offs. Adult Co-ed Basketball will be

Daytime classes in adult education

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program is offering an increased number of daytime classes this fall, according to program Director Cathy Newell. "Responding to the requests of senior citizens and others who are able to take daytime classes, we have been able to schedule some exciting classes, and are grateful for the cooperation of area organizations in making this possible through the use of their facilities," Newell stated.

Daytime classes include Conversational French on Monday afternoons at the Bethel Library, and Art Appreciation, also at the library, on Wednesday mornings. There will be an Advanced Quilting on Tuesday mornings at the library.

The West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel will be the site of a parenting skills class, Systematic Training for Effective Parenting, on Thursday mornings. The Bethel House on Main Street will host Bridge classes on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, with the Intermediate level on Tuesday and Beginners on Wednesday. A Drawing class with Sue Wright will be held at the Bethel House on Tuesday mornings. On Wednesday, Oct. 21, there will be a special workshop on Growing and Cooking with Sprouts at the Bethel House from 11-1.

There will be an Adult Learning Center section held at the Bethel Library on Tuesday mornings from 9-12. This session allows adults who are interested in preparation or practice testing for the GED High School Equivalency Exam to work at their own pace under the direction of Merrill Blittner. Ms. Blittner will also be available during this time to work with individuals on career choices, job hunting skills, or guidance about educational programs.

To enroll in any of the courses, or for details of time and place, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780. Adult and Community Education Director Newell is always happy to receive suggestions for other courses, and may be reached at the office.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Can anyone give me the address for the family of Doris Lord? I sent a card to Donald Lord at the address listed in the Apopka phone book, but it was returned.

I was very saddened to hear that Doris Lord had passed away. I grew up in Bethel and moved away in 1944. I had not seen or heard of Doris Lord in all those intervening years. In 1986 my husband and I were managers of a mobile home park in Apopka, Fla. Last August (1986) Doris called me, and I immediately remembered the vibrant lady with the great big heart and tremendous piano ability. She came and visited and played the piano on several occasions for our residents. They fell in love with her. It was obvious that her health was deteriorating very rapidly, but she still had the same energetic spirit and tremendous personality.

The last time I saw Doris was in April of 1987. She was in a Florida hospital. She had taken her toll. She told me at that time that she wanted to go to a nursing home in Maine, to be back with her friends.

We will miss Doris Lord.

To the Editor:

Thanks to you and your colleagues in the media business we have been inundated lately by news of condominiums and other development. In fact, I have not been anywhere in the state recently where "development" was not the primary topic of discussion. It is easy to see, as many seem to do, that we are destined for a future of uncontrolled growth, polluted waters, and ravaged forests.

I think it is time for you and your industry to recognize and celebrate the positive benefits of development pressure. As I look about the area, I see people accepting the challenge of planning for the future and coping with the pressures of the present by banding together in the kind of community action groups that I have not seen in years. In recent weeks we have seen Comprehensive Plans overwhelmingly accepted in Bethel, met with positive response at public hearing in Newry, and begun in Woodstock. One hundred people turned out for the August meeting of the Albany Improvement Association. A Community Lakes Association has been formed to bring about the protection of the nine lakes and ponds in Greenwood and Woodstock. A Friends of the Androscoggin is being formed in the area. A "Community Conference" is planned for October in Bethel to continue the work of the 1986 Planning Workshop.

There is new interest on the part of citizens to serve on their town's planning boards. Each of these actions is an example of individuals working together to seek community solutions to the challenge of growth.

In each case, the attention given to development pressure undoubtedly helped people to focus on the need for action, and I thank you for that. Now let's celebrate the efforts of those who have chosen to take the course of positive action to provide for an ordered future rather than accepting defeat in a chaotically changing world. Beyond that, let's encourage others to join with them in the true spirit of community planning.

Keep up the good work with the Citizen! I had decided to let our subscription lapse but then realized how much I look forward to reading about our old town and the people in it. I fear for the effects the fast growth will have on the area and hope Bethel can maintain its charm and small town feeling.

To the Editor:

This letter is regarding the Maine Educational Assessment Test which has been administered to students in SAD #44 since 1986 and some of the issues surrounding the tests.

In 1986, students throughout the state of Maine were introduced to a new Assessment Test in grades 4, 8, and 11. Since many people have expressed confusion over exactly what these results mean, the following is intended to clarify the intent of the test.

Whenever attempting to review the results of the Maine Educational Assessment Test it is very important to remember the following facts:

- The Maine Educational Assessment Test has been designed to help Maine schools assess what is being taught. Although it does measure student achievement, one of its main purposes is to actually help a school district determine strengths and weaknesses in the curriculum. For example, SAD #44 has been concerned about its math curriculum and has spent the last two years redefining this curriculum. Results from the MEA from both 1986 and 1987 were some of the tools used to help us determine the specific areas of that particular curriculum that needed special attention. As a result schools opened this fall with a completely revamped math program that is designed to meet the needs of the students, that the Maine Assessment Test helped to define.

- It is important that results from one year's testing not be directly compared to the next year's results with recognizing the many differences that makes each class of students unique. For example, a fourth grade classroom at the elementary schools may differ greatly from year to year. One year a class may have a large percentage of students requiring special services while the next year's class may not have any. Because schools are required to test as many children as possible, the results can obviously be much different from year to year. In 1987, the average percentage of special education students included in fourth grade testing throughout the state was only 8 percent. In SAD #44 the percentage of fourth grade special education students was 16 percent.

- According to Dr. Randy Walker, Director of the Maine Educational Assessment, it is far more accurate to compare a class or an individual using the results of 1987's fourth grade test and 1991's eighth grade test. These results can better help a teacher or parent chart an individual child's growth. SAD #44 also uses an S.R.A. Achievement Test in grades 3, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10 to chart individual growth. The S.R.A. measures student achievement on a national norm, while the MEA is a state normed test. Your child's teacher or building principal can easily show you how to use the results to measure growth throughout the years.

- The fourth grade MEA test measures some of the areas a child has mastered from kindergarten to grade three, the eighth grade test covers kindergarten through grade 10. It is the hope of all school districts that the results gleaned from each year's MEA test can help strengthen areas of the curriculum in need of improvement so that, when this year's fourth grader gets to the eighth grade, we have benefited from changes that have been put in place during the years between tests.

- Advanced Systems, the originators of the Maine Educational Assessment, urge parents, teachers and school officials to remember that "in previous assessment programs in which results were reported in terms of average percentages of correct responses, we advised people that if their schools scored within 5 percentage points of the state-wide average, then they should assume that their performance was not appreciably different from state-wide performance either statistically or educationally. In the new program, you should use 50 points as

Sunday River announces '87-'88 calendar of events

Lynne Hodgkin, promotions coordinator at Sunday River Ski Resort, announced the calendar of events for the 1987-88 season. The fourth annual Blue Mountains Arts & Crafts Festival, a celebration of western Maine folk arts, kicks off a season of special events for the entire family, Oct. 10-11.

Skiers are welcomed home on Opening Day, scheduled for early November. December is Learn-to-Ski Month at Sunday River, and Santa makes his traditional stop at the resort to ski with the kids Christmas Day.

Celebrate an old-fashioned winter carnival during Western Mountains Winter wonderland Week, Feb. 2-12, 1988. Fireworks will light up the March sky at Mardi Gras, Easter is in the heart of spring skiing this season. The annual Easter sunrise mountain top service, traditional hearty Maine breakfast and children's Easter egg hunt is April 5. The season winds up with a free day of skiing, Ski Maynia, on May 1—Sunday River's unofficial last day of skiing.

For details and a copy of Sunday River's 1987-88 Calendar of Events, call or write Lynne Hodgkin, at Sunday River Ski Resort, P.O. Box 450, Bethel, Me. 04217, telephone number 824-2187.

your "critical difference." In other words, if a school scores fewer than 50 points above or below the state average then it might be said that the school scored at or near the state-wide performance level." Simply speaking, if an eighth grade scored 200 on the math section of the MEA and the state average was 245, that class would be considered at or near state average.

In closing, it is important that parents understand the reason for the Maine Educational Assessment Test. When headlines proclaim that "Scores Have Risen Dramatically," or that "Scores Are Declining Substantially," newspapers have misrepresented the intent and the ability of the test. Every child, indeed every class, is unique. If a child is to be compared, let him be compared using his own personal growth and potential as he progresses through his years in school.

The grade 11 test scores will show a drastic decline from the 1986 scores. Normally, the assessment tests are given during one week in March. Due to school days lost during the flood and career awareness week, the testing took over two and half weeks to complete. In fact, 14 students (of 12 percent of grade 11) did not complete at least one section of the assessment test due to the length of the testing period.

Thank you for allowing me the time to clarify some of the issues.

To the Editor:
It was hard not to notice Maine Yankee's expensive advertisement in the newspaper last week (Sept. 21). The advertisement pictured and quoted two "alternative energy experts" giving reasons to vote Maine Yankee's way in this November's nuclear waste referendum. At the bottom of the advertisement it was mentioned that the "People to Keep Maine Yankee's Electricity" paid for the advertisement. I feel that it was extremely misleading to the public that nothing was said about the fact that the Mr. Hill and Mr. Kleinschmidt in the ad are being paid to say those things. These two men plus David Allen and Robert Dels have been hired to convince the people of Maine to vote Maine Yankee's way and to give the impression that people actually want to keep Maine Yankee.

MSAD #44 Superintendent's Newsletter

Dwaine B. Craig

Twice each month, I will be writing a short column for the Citizen concerning general educational items or important updates concerning specific educational policy. This week's column is regarding "Homework."

Your third grader never seems to have any homework. The 12-year-old intends to do his "later," after a very important TV show. And, if you check the high school sophomore, you'll discover she's solving those algebra problems while listening to rock music or talking on the telephone.

Should parents get involved in homework? If so, to what extent?

Homework is essentially a matter between teacher and child, a means by which the students develop self-reliance, learning to work on their own and to take responsibility for their work. Although parents can certainly give a bit of help on special assignments, they defeat this purpose if they regularly insert themselves into the learning process, sitting alongside their children every evening, checking each paper or doing research.

Here are a few tips that may help. Each day, set aside a definite period for homework. Children feel secure with routine and are less likely to balk at study time if it is a predictable as meals or baths. Although some children don't mind mind doing their homework right after school, most seem to need some physical activity and socializing at these hours, accepting study time more happily if it is scheduled after dinner. Whatever time is chosen, make sure it becomes a priority.

If a student never seems to have any homework or says it's completed in class each day, better check with the teacher. If students are, in fact, caught up on assignments for if they are in a primary grade where homework is not given on a daily basis, establish the study habit anyway. Encourage them to read a library book, practice printing, or work on stamp collections—any intellectual pursuit that will help develop a pattern.

Have a definite place for homework, preferably isolated from other family activities. Ideally, children should be able to study in their own bedrooms, equipped with desk, supplies, and a good reading lamp. In larger families or small living quarters, there are other options.

Dining room or kitchen tables make good work spaces with large surfaces for papers and books. Roommates can share a long piece of fiberboard mounted on two cubes, where supplies can be stored.

Wherever the work space, have the child use it all the time. Not only can materials be nearby, thus cutting down on time spent gathering everything together, but sitting down at a familiar spot will eventually trigger a "now it's time to study" reaction. By contrast, a youngster who wanders aimlessly each evening, looking for a place to do a math assignment, wastes a lot of energy.

Keep distractions to a minimum. A home cannot be completely silent, but even the most avid scholar will become discouraged if surrounded by noise and conversation.

TV and telephone calls should be off limits during study time. If this means temporarily removing the upstairs extension phone, do it.

If teenagers insist they study better with the radio on, be sure to keep the volume low, and not be located near others who need quiet study time.

In two weeks, the topic of this column will be the district's revised attendance policy.

Roger Wheeler, a logger and developer, said there seemed no middle ground for those who wanted more single-family housing yet no trailers. Individual homes are too expensive for low and moderate income families, he said.

Les Otten, president of Sunday River Skiway Corp., said condominiums should not be looked upon as housing that is pushing individual homes out of town.

"The two things don't necessarily conflict," he said. "Condos are for part-time guests, whereas single-family housing is for full-time residents. A properly designed mobile home park, providing affordable housing for local people might be an acceptable solution to the housing problem, he said.

Mr. Wright agreed that modular housing or a well-planned trailer park would be a viable alternative to single-family homes.

Jim Sysko said the root of the problem is the fact that real estate prices have shot up so high. "We see people from out-of-state buying up property at vastly inflated prices [as an investment]," he said.

And Roger Hanson added, speaking to Mr. Otten, "Actually, Les, it's your business that caused the land prices to go up." (The comprehensive plan pointed out that real estate development at the skiway began in 1978 with the construction of 18 townhouses at South Ridge. Development shifted into high gear in 1984, so that by the end of last year there were 424 condos at the skiway. When current construction is complete, there will be over 3,000 beds on the mountain, the plan states.)

Mr. Otten pointed out that the rise of land prices has to do with the improvement of the local economy. And, he said, the skiway has done a lot more for the town than cause real estate prices to go up. He said there are 27 employees at the skiway who earn over $18,000 a year. In 1980 there was only one employee who earned that much, he said. Additionally, the recreation industry tends to bring in other industries, he said, both service and manufacturing.

Both Mr. Otten and Mr. Wheeler expressed concern over policy recommendations in the Comprehensive Plan. Mr. Otten said he was concerned over the suggestion that a minimum lot size be established for multi-family housing. Mr. Wheeler said the plan envisioned a lot more control over development than the town needed. "Anything we do with the Comprehensive Plan [policy suggestions], we should look to see how much regulation we can stand," he said.

Responding to fears that the town was changing too fast, Mr. Wright said, "I wonder how the Indians felt when they saw the first settlers cutting down the trees in the river valley and burning them to make way for farms. What people call the good old days was really a period of time that was the result of great changes. Mr. Wright pointed out.

The draft Comprehensive Plan will be presented to a special town meeting Sept. 21.

ly better in Reading and Writing than the boys, while the boys did markedly better in Math, Science and Social Studies than did the girls. These gender differences were also noted in the state averages.

Local 11th-graders seemed much like the average 11th-grader statewide in terms of their expectations after graduating from high school. Answering a questionnaire that came with the exam, 54 percent of local 11th-graders said they planned to go on to college (56 percent statewide answered the same); 21 percent said they wanted to enter a trade or vocational school (15 percent statewide); 15 percent said they would get a full-time job (12 percent statewide); and 10 percent said they would join the military (9 percent statewide).

The statewide testing of students' achievement is done yearly in the 4th, 8th and 11th grades. It was mandated by the Educational Reform Act of 1984, passed by the State Legislature. The assessment program was first implemented in 1985-86.

The scores of the district's students, in addition to being compared to state averages, are also compared with scores of students in districts that are similar to SAD #44 in terms of size and socio-economic level. Local scores are below the scores of similar districts, except in Science, where local scores were about the same as scores in similar districts.

VISITORS IN CONNECTICUT

Mary C. (Rice) Keniston of Bethel accompanied her son, Donald Rice, of East Waterford to Guilford, Conn., for a weekend visit with her oldest son and family, Douglas and Sandra Rice and Justin, Rachel, and Sarah. Their visit was to attend the wedding of Karen Kaminsky to James N. Hannon at the St. Mary's Church in Branford, Conn., and the afternoon reception following at the Westbrook Elks Club in Westbrook, Conn. Doug was Jim's best man.

Emerson and Loretta Merrill of West Bethel, and Fred DesRoches and son, Jay, formerly of Bethel, now of Prestburg-Aurora, Ill., were guests of the Rices' friends and neighbors, the Ernest O'Briens, and also attended the special occasion.

Doug and Sandra hosted an evening catered buffet at their home for the Hannon family and relatives attending.

Jim Hannon is a business associate of Douglas Rice and Fred DesRoches and they have been long time visitors during the ski season at their chalet at Sunday River Skiway.

Bethel to be site of conference on sexual abuse

A conference to be held in Bethel Thursday and Friday (Sept. 17 and 18) will try to improve Maine's over-all handling of its response system dealing with the prevention and treatment of child sexual abuse.

Called the Bethel Conference on Child Sexual Abuse, it will call together, for the second straight year, professionals representing law enforcement, the courts, corrections, child welfare, mental health, medical and educational disciplines, along with family members, survivors of abuse and community leaders.

To be held at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, it is being sponsored by the Child Sex Abuse Committee, which is part of a state governmental group, the Interdepartmental Committee, composed of liaison persons from the departments of Corrections, Educational and Cultural Services, Mental Health and Mental Retardation, plus community participants from across Maine.

Keynote speaker at the Thursday morning session will be Dr. Gene Abel, director of the Emory Clinic Behavioral Medicine Laboratory in Atlanta, Ga. He will sketch a profile, developed from data compiled from the study of over 800 sex offenders, of the types and numbers of sex crimes and what kinds of therapy programs can be effective in remedial efforts.

Eight workshops will follow, on the various aspects of the problem. The second day will be involved with discussion of model systems that highlight treatment and prevention methods.

Representative from F.A.M.E. to be speaker at breakfast meeting

Charles Mercer from the Finance Authority of Maine (F.A.M.E.) will be the guest speaker at a breakfast meeting sponsored by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at Martha's Restaurant on Thursday, Oct. 1, from 7:30 to 9 a.m.

Preregistration is required through the chamber office by Sept. 29. The fee is $5 which includes a full breakfast (choice of menu) and the meeting. A mailing has been done—please mail back your clip form or contact the chamber office at 824-2282.

The topic to be discussed is "How to Obtain Business Capital," and it is targeted towards both small and big business. All are welcome.

Mills named co-director of Biden's campaign

State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) has been named co-director of the Biden-for-President campaign in Maine. The other co-director is Rep. Joe Mayo (D-Thomaston).

"With the Maine caucuses as one of the final tests before Super Tuesday, the strength of our organization in the state will be crucial for winning the nomination," said Joseph R. Biden, Jr., the Delaware senator seeking the Democratic Party nomination for president.

"I am honored to have Joe Mayo and Jeff Mills aboard," said Sen. Biden. "By their character and enthusiasm, I think they both represent the best of the young, emerging leaders in the Democratic Party today."

Mr. Mills, who was a Hart delegate from Maine to the National Democratic convention in 1984, said hearing Biden speak in Augusta at the Maine legislative appreciation dinner last April was a big factor in his decision to support the candidate.

"He has a way of speaking to peoples' hearts," said Mr. Mills, of Sen. Biden. "I think Joe Biden represents the tough type of populism that's always been the heart of the Democratic Party."

The Biden campaign headquarters is in Augusta. The phone number is 623-2192.

substitute custodian, Wayne Mowatt.

Initial approval was granted a revised "Student Attendance Policy." It will be before the board for its "second reading" at the Sept. 28 meeting.

It was the decision of the directors to postpone any action on the overcrowding in grade one at the Woodstock School until their next meeting. In the meantime David Murphy, principal, and Jolene Shimamura, grade one teacher, are to meet with the parents of the grade one students to review the issue.

Before adjournment, an executive session was held to discuss issues involving negotiations and policy.

Board members not present Monday evening were: Darlene Hall, Andover; Cheryl Elliott, Bethel.

The next regular meeting of the SAD #44 Board of Directors is scheduled to be held at the Woodstock School at 7:30 Monday evening, Sept. 28.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Another week of school has sped by, this one with the long Labor Day weekend. The book fair materials arrived right on time and students and teachers are finding good buys.

On Wednesday, the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades were treated to a mini-concert. Students from the junior high, along with their music teachers, presented an instrumental demonstration. Children from the 4th grade on are encouraged to take up a musical instrument. The 4th graders begin with the stringed instruments, mostly violin. Fifth and sixth graders go on to other instruments. Lessons are given during the school day and some students take part in the elementary band and orchestra—a good preparation for junior and senior high programs.

The art teacher, Mrs. Merrill, is with us this quarter and all students grade 3-6 meet with her once a week. Drawing is the main emphasis at this point and all students make a drawing book which Mrs. Merrill keeps over the years, until the end of the 6th grade year. This is a unique record to show how each student's art changes and grows. Mrs. Merrill joins us for our Friday activity period, thus providing an extra art class for interested students. Art work will also be collected from various students to be displayed in the district-wide Art Festival which will be held in the spring. This week's "Artist of the Week" is Emily Cole, grade 3.

Another "specialist" who puts in a full day's work at our school is our music teacher, Mr. Dan Barker. In addition to having a music class with all grades, K-6, Mr. Barker works with a choral group and is our mainstay whenever a classroom puts on a play. This year he is with us only one day a week, but he continues to promote musical activities with his usual enthusiasm!

The Greenwood Historical Society met Wednesday, Sept. 2, with 14 members present. Willie Hathaway presided and Denise Swan acted as secretary in the absence of Barbara Dunham. The society voted not to have the apple festival previously voted for this fall. Blaine Mills volunteered to put the primer coat of paint on the new addition. The building committee reported that no progress had been made on the interior work. Blaine Mills wrote an article for a book on the life of L.L. Bean which was printed for the 75th anniversary of the store. The book is not for sale but a copy was given Blaine for the historical society. The society wanted a nominating committee so the president appointed Blaine Mills as chairman to find a nominating committee. Phyllis Coolidge, assisted by her mother, Jeannette Kimball, furnished refreshments. Mary Mills will be furnishing refreshments for the October meeting. Following the meeting, Helen Kimball presented slides on their trip to Colorado and other western states.

Reminder: The Old Time Dance sponsored by the Greenwood Historical Society will be held Saturday, Sept. 26, at 8 p.m. at the Locke Mills Town Hall.

The town offers its sincerest sympathy to the family of Arthur Ring who died in Freeport this past week.

Charlotte Cole took Gladys Ring, Vera Cross, and Helen Chase to visit Ruth Dunham in Bryant Pond who was celebrating her birthday Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were in Mexico Saturday where they accompanied their pastor, Rev. Lyle Van Horn and boys, Mark, Andrew, and Daniel, to Lewiston. They went to Marden's and the Bible Bookstore and were treated by the pastor to lunch at Burger King.

Vera Cross was a supper guest at Charlotte Cole's Saturday evening and then they both went dancing at Greene. Gerry Shimamura tells me her mother, Thelma Merrill, is home from the hospital. You can't keep a good woman down.

I'm constantly being reminded how fast time goes by these days. My daughter, Marcia Smith, and husband, Jon, will celebrate their 10th wedding anniversary Thursday, Sept. 17.

Charlotte Cole took Anne Troy to Cole's Farm in Gray for dinner where she met some friends from North Yarmouth. Charlotte also told me her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noyes of Wilton, were recent supper guests, on Labor Day to be exact.

My first party with Perfect Party Plan was eventful. Frances Davis arrived dripping wet as she'd gone straight when the road made a sharp left turn and had walked a ways. Anita Edwards and others went down to try to pull her back into the road, but her vehicle was too light. We called Clayton Thompson and with two vehicles he got her back on gravel. She's the second person to take the plunge into the shrubbery at the "turn-around."

We were unable to have the party at the partly built new house because of the chill and rain so stuffed a Fibber McGee closet and were warm and dry. Laurie Bergeron will host a party Wednesday evening Sept. 23.

The Edwards pony arrived this week. He's a handsome young fellow who has been a show pony.

The Solomon Gays were at camp for a few days. Glenna is returning to the Norway hospital for an operation this week and will not be able to travel for some time. She had colostomy and treatments earlier and this will be a follow-up procedure.

Patrick Dapollito returned and started school in Telstar.

Esther Davis had supper guests Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Erland Twitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway and Olive Davis attended and I'm sure did justice to a bountiful meal. They enjoyed a social evening together.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brook and Olive Davis were at Rumford Point for a three Grange installation. Rumford served a six o'clock supper before hand. The installing Master, Wayne Sherman, and staff installed Rumford, West Paris and Franklin Grange in a very able manner. Others attending from our area were: Richard Felt, Florence Gustafson, and Lucille Robbins.

Esther Davis and Olive Davis visited Mrs. Gloria Redman, Friday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Whitemore of Livermore took dinner with Esther Davis Monday. They went for a ride over Paris Hill, Norway Lake, and Greenwood, returning home through Richardson Hollow.

Olive Davis joined her family at Thompson Pond at the lot owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews for a cook out. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winkle and 2 children of Northboro Mass., spent the Labor Day weekend there in their motor home. Those attending were: Arthur and Sylvia Andrews, Lillian Harmon, Olive Davis, Mark Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winkley, Donna, Brian, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Goldsmith, Daphne and Julie, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Smith, Charity, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin McGillicuddy were there in the morning but left their little daughter, Danielle, with the Winkles while they went to New Hampshire. They were returning in late afternoon to pick her up. Harry Johnson made a beautiful "Andrews" sign for Arthur in no time flat in the afternoon. It was surely a work of art. It is a beautiful little pond. There were nine ducks who came to the shore for bread they threw out to them. The children had rubber boats they inflated and took a ride on the pond. They all swim which is good too.

Patricia Tibbets and her mother, Esther Davis, went to Litchfield Sunday where they visited a cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Moreau. They had a cook out with the family.

Esther Davis and Kathleen Bean tended the Historical open house Saturday at Bryant Pond.

Mr. and Mrs. John Modell, Jr., of Piscataway, Miss., have returned home after spending two weeks with Helen Remsen at her cottage at Sunday River Ski Way. While they were here, Helen Remsen took them for a tour to New Brunswick over the Cabot trail in Cape

The Bicentennial Commemoration of the United States Constitution

Please take a few minutes to read this summarized version of the Constitution. Take pride in your country, your flag, and your Constitution...which insures freedom & opportunity for all.

A summary of

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

We the People

of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

Article I*LEGISLATIVE BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The legislative branch of government, or Congress, makes all the laws. It has two parts, or houses, the Senate and the House of Representatives.

Section 2: House of Representatives. Members of the House of Representatives serve a 2-year term. They are elected by the people. Representatives must be at least 25 years old, citizens of the United States for at least 7 years, and citizens of the state they represent.

The number of representatives from each state depends on that state's population. In order to decide on the number of representatives from each state, the government must count the people every 10 years. This is called a census.

Section 3: The Senate. The Senate is made up of two senators from each state. Senators have a 6-year term. Senators must be at least 30 years old, citizens of the United States for at least 9 years, and citizens of the state they represent.

The Vice-President of the United States is in charge of the Senate, but may only vote in case of a tie.

Sections 4-7: Rules. Instructions on how to operate both the House and the Senate are covered. Behavior of members, record keeping, pay, and how a bill becomes a law are covered.

Sections 8-10: Duties. The exact jobs of Congress are listed. Congress makes all money and trade laws. Congress decides how people can become citizens of the United States and can declare war if necessary. Powers Congress and the states do not have are also listed.

Article II*EXECUTIVE BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The executive branch is made up of the President of the United States and those who help carry out laws passed by Congress. The President manages the government. A President and Vice-President are elected to a 4-year term.

A President must have been born in the United States, must be at least 35 years old, and must have lived in the United States for at least 14 years.

Sections 2-4: Duties. Some of the President's jobs include carrying out the laws made by Congress, responsibility for all the armed forces, pardoning crimes, and reporting to Congress at least once a year on what the nation is doing. The President makes treaties and appoints government leaders; the Senate must give its approval. If the President does wrong, he may be removed from office.

Article III*JUDICIAL BRANCH

Section 1: Description. The judicial branch of government is the federal court system. The Supreme Court is the nation's highest court. It has the final say in all matters of law. Judges are appointed, not elected to office.

Section 2: Duties. The federal courts have a say in all cases that are not entirely within a state.

Section 3: Treason. The crime of treason, trying to overthrow the government, is explained.

Article IV*THE STATES

Sections 1-4: Rules about the states. All states must accept acts, records, and laws of other states. A citizen of one state must be given the same rights as the citizens of another state he or she may be in. The governor of one state may send an accused criminal from another state back to that state for trial.

New states may be added to the United States. The United States government will protect all states from enemies.

Article V*AMENDMENTS

Making changes. The Constitution may be amended, or changed.

Article VI*HIGHEST LAW

Above all others. The Constitution of the United States is the highest law in the land. State laws must be under this law. All national and state law makers and offices must support the Constitution.

Article VII*PASSING THE CONSTITUTION

Ratification. This Constitution becomes law when 9 of the 13 states ratify it, or approve it.

AMENDMENTS

The first ten amendments are known as "THE BILL OF RIGHTS"

Amendment I: Congress may not make rules to change freedom of religion, freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or the right of people to come together in a peaceful way or to send petitions to their government.

Amendment II: The people have the right to keep and bear arms.

Amendment III: During peacetime, the government cannot make citizens put up soldiers in their homes.

Amendment IV: People or their homes may not be searched unreasonably.

Amendment V: Persons accused of serious crimes have the right to a jury trial. They may not be forced to give evidence against themselves. Their lives, freedom, and property may not be taken from them unfairly. If the government takes a person's property for public use, it must pay the owner for it.

Amendment VI: Persons accused of serious crimes have the right to a speedy and public trial. They must be told what they are accused of. They have the right to have a lawyer. They have the right to see and question those who accuse them.

Amendment VII: In most cases, there must be a right to a jury trial.

Amendment VIII: Punishment may not be cruel and unusual.

Amendments IX and X: If the Constitution does not give a certain right to the United States government, and also does not forbid a state government to have that right, then the states and the people have it.

Amendment XI: The power of the judicial branch is limited to certain kinds of cases.

Amendment XII: Electors vote for President and Vice-President separately.

Amendment XIII: Slavery may not exist in the United States.

Amendment XIV: People born in the United States or naturalized here are United States citizens. They are also citizens of the states they live in.

States may not make laws that limit the rights of citizens of the United States. They may not take away a person's life or freedom of property unfairly. They must treat all people equally under the law.

Amendment XV: No citizen may be denied the right to vote because of race.

Amendment XVI: Congress is allowed to pass an income tax law.

Amendment XVII: United States senators are elected by the people.

Amendment XVIII: Liquor may no longer be manufactured or sold in the United States.

Amendment XIX: No citizen may be denied the right to vote because of sex.

Amendment XX: Presidents start their new terms on January 20. Congress starts its new term on January 3.

Amendment XXI: The eighteenth amendment to this Constitution is repealed, or taken back.

Amendment XXII: Presidents are limited to two terms in office.

Amendment XXIII: Residents of Washington, D.C., have the right to vote for President.

Amendment XXIV: Citizens need not pay a tax in order to vote for President, senators, or members of Congress.

Amendment XXV: In case the President becomes too ill to carry on the job, the Vice-President will take over as Acting President until the President is better.

Amendment XXVI: No citizen who is 18 years of age or older may be denied the right to vote because of age.

This is a still waiting kind of day before rain. I was out in quest of any thing interesting. What a privilege to spend the early afternoon poking about for rare plants and anything else botanically surprising. The discovery of something new is heady business.

I climbed to the top of a hill, around boulders and ferns, and heard the call of the jay and the chickadees. What more does one need. I came down to wander off to another place near water. Frogs leaped into the pool and a heron deeply stood in the weeds.

Small valleys like this one; the soil is kept moist by runoff from the flanking slopes. Tall trees weave in and out with the wind so the soil is slower to dry out. This valley is pinched between two ridges and in places carpeted with pine needles.

In this meadow-like place several good sized aspens, scattered across the narrow floor, were taking advantage of the sunlight. A white breasted nuthatch made his way down one of them, head-first. He blended into the shadows—blue-gray back cast a shadow, white breast reflected the color of the trunk. Slowly he proceeded down the trunk testing all the way for grubs under the bark.

Imperceptibly plant life is slowing down with cooler nights and shorter days. Noontime sun is warm but the mornings are chilly and quiet. Frost, a sharp line in the otherwise stately gait of the season silences the sound of summer.

This was a rewarding way to spend an hour. It was all there free and beautiful. More real, than high prices and speeding cars, which I met on my way home; reminding me that what we fail to preserve today will disappear forever.

We have new neighbors living on the Hayes Farm. Several from here attended the Masonic service for Ernest (Skip) Morris on Sept. 2. He had lived among us for many years and was a kind, thoughtful neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Salway were in Berlin, N.H., Saturday to attend the wedding of Mary McKay and Carlos Pita.

The electric power was off for an hour here Wednesday afternoon.

Again school buses are making their regular runs and children await them beside the roads. Other drivers be aware.

The usual September weather was with us in August—now it's September and we have been having August weather.

North Paris

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

What a beautiful week, weather was ideal with a cup of water for added attraction. The trees in some places are donning their pretty colored dresses and we wonder where the summer has gone.

Mr. and Mrs. Marie Cordwell returned today (Sept. 10) from Stephens Memorial Hospital and her back is very sore and tender.

Bill Labbe has moved his family to Fort Devens, Mass., where they will live on the base.

Callers at Lawrences: Leon Buswell, Joe Vatcher, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath, Richard Felt, and Barbara Knightly. Mr. and Mrs. "Root" Lawrence called on Mr. and Mrs. Mark Thayer, and took them some jam.

Doris Lawrence called on her niece, Barbara Felt.

Irwin and Lila Ellingwood of West Paris former residents here, were given a surprise 45th wedding anniversary party at the community hall on Sept. 7. One hundred guests attended and they had a nice time, even if it was hot.

Etti new postmaster at Bryant Pond

The appointment of Frank Etti as postmaster at Bryant Pond has been announced by Ray D. Stewart, general manager of the Manchester Postal Division.

Mr. Etti was selected on merit following the competitive procedure established by the United States Postal Service.

He originally joined the Postal Service in 1981 as a postmaster relief/replacement in Hanover. Prior to his appointment to the Bryant Pond position, he served as postmaster at Hanover for six years.

Mr. Etti is a graduate of Glastonbury (Conn.) High School, and the University of Connecticut.

Postmaster Etti and his wife, Bess, reside in Hanover. As a point of interest, Mr. Etti was selected to be the community representative at the 1987 Marksmen's Fair in Hanover, West Germany, and represented the Postal Service in the capacity of postmaster of a "sister city" in America.

The Bryant Pond Post Office provides a full range of postal services to over 800 families and businesses in the area. There are four postal employees at the facility. Immediately prior to Mr. Etti's appointment, Wayne Cadman served as officer-in-charge. Mr. Cadman is to return to duties as a mailhandler in the management section of the post office in Portland. Connie Blanchard, the prior postmaster, has retired.

The new postmaster stated that his primary objective is to assure that all postal customers receive service that is prompt, efficient and courteous. He also stated that he welcomes suggestions and comments concerning service from the business people and community residents.

What a lovely morning after the rainy day yesterday, but what a relief for the gardens that are left and the wells that need so much water to refill them. It was a lovely sound when the rain started and we had hoped that it would continue longer than it did. I know some folks think all they need is the sunshine, but without rain, things don't grow and the wells go dry so they should take that in consideration before wishing it was sunny all the time. Anyway, we are very grateful that we haven't been hit by frost as yet and that we finally got some water for the growth of things.

We are enjoying the nice fresh vegetables from the garden and hope to be able to continue to for a while. Russell brought in carrots, beets, broccoli and we still get an ear of corn once in a while that was slower than the rest. Still picking string beans every few days so we really have few complaints where our garden is concerned. The rain should have helped the spinach that Russell planted late and the purple headed cauliflower, also. They weren't heading as we had hoped but he has seen a few that are started so we continue to hope for the best. Beets all the canned goods from the store, any time.

Last Thursday, Peggy went to Lewiston to meet a friend for lunch but something happened and the friend didn't show up. She was from the Hillsboro Club in Florida where Peggy works winters so she had hoped to see her. She hopes to find out in the near future what happened. Anyway, on her way home she stopped at one or two homes to find friends gone but finally found Pauline Kenniston at home in Norway so visited with her for a while. They went to school together and it is always nice to keep up with one's classmates.

Friday was what one would call a waiting game for all of us. I had an appointment with the chiropractor. He was so busy that Russell had to wait some time. His next stop was at the hospital for therapy so Peggy had to wait to take him there. He was late getting there so after part of the therapy was done, he had to wait for the rest. In the meantime, Peggy came to pick me up in South Paris where I had been waiting. I then went to the chiropractor and like Russell, I had to wait and then it took a long time as it was my first visit to see him. Russell and Peggy were waiting in the car for me as they had no idea how long it would be before I came out. What a waiting game! We then went and got groceries and got home to have lunch about two in the afternoon. I wasn't feeling the best so didn't try to do much the rest of the day but knit a little.

Saturday morning, I decided to take it easy as I still didn't feel too good. Wanted to go down to Carolyn and David Yates in the afternoon for a short while as their son, David, and his new wife were being given a party for the folks around here to meet her. They were married in May but wore their wedding clothes so folks here could have pictures. The wedding being in New York, most of the relatives here didn't get to go and that is why the party. It was a lovely sunny afternoon and the party was held on the front lawn. Refreshments were served after giving a toast to the bride and groom wishing them a happy life together. It was most enjoyable and with lawn chairs for many to sit in, one could relax and meet the relatives and converse nicely. Some of the kids went swimming in the pool so all in all it was a real nice gathering. Gifts were presented to the married couple and I hope they got things they could use.

Peggy and I came home a little early as I was tired and she wanted to get ready to go dancing with friends. She has such a good time at Greene dancing. She says the crowd is wonderful and you make friends so easily whether you know other's names or not. That is the kind of a crowd that really counts.

Sunday was a day of doing what one wanted, whether it be painting on a little house for tools or typing up recipes to make a better book as I did. Ambition wasn't too great so we each did whatever came to mind. In the afternoon, Myrna and Bernard White of Auburn came to visit Peggy and called in here for a few minutes before heading home. Grace was busy as a been doing things at home as Lawrence and granddaughter Misty had gone deep sea fishing with Laura and Bernard Hutchins of East Andover. Haven't heard whether they caught much or not but am sure they had fun. This isn't the first time they have gone.

Would have liked to go along but with my weak muscles, I wouldn't be able to land a fish if I got a bite.

Monday morning, I went and picked the summer squash and zucchini and froze up six packages for use this winter. They make such lovely casseroles and we like them so much. Puttered around doing this and that but not too much of anything. Went to town in the afternoon to get prescriptions filled and was lucky to get there just before the pharmacist went off duty until five in the evening. There was Grange in the evening. Bryant Pond and we went to be installed as we hadn't made it to Rumford Saturday night. Not a very big gang but had the meeting and got things done. There are still a couple of folks who should be installed who weren't there but it will be done in the near future.

Did a little more freezing of broccoli on Tuesday. It has headed so nicely this year, much better than last. It is sure adding up in the freezer. Russell works in the garden or paints on his storage house or something to keep busy most of the time and I do what I can in the house. Peggy is making things at home so we all keep busy. Tuesday afternoon, Barbara Yates of Bethel called in for a visit. She had had to go to South Paris for something and stopped in on the way home. Hope she does it again soon, as we enjoy company. It was good to find out about their family while talking to her.

Wednesday morning, we left home early as I had a doctor's appointment in North Bridgton. He is trying to help break this bad spell I have been having but don't know if we will win or not. Got back to Norway and Peggy was to meet friends in Lewiston for lunch so I had driven my car down and she drove it to North Bridgton for me. She left us and headed out on her days adventure. Russell had a doctor's appointment and wanted to get a blood test at the hospital so we did those things but had to wait as we had before. Went looking around in stores to kill time while waiting. Did a few errands and got home late for lunch. Russell picked string beans again and I called Viola to ask if she wanted them so they called in the evening when on their way to town for something. We have given them quite a few string beans to eat this year and am sure it will come in handy this winter.

Toby, her son, is getting his animals ready for the fairs that are coming up. I know he has sheep, beef for Norway or Oxford Fair and another for Fryeburg so it keeps him busy helping on the farm along with school and bowling. Don't get to see him too often but hope all is well with him.

Summer went fast and the kids are back in school so we all have to be extra careful when driving and see the kids waiting for the buses. They are precious but mischievous at times and one doesn't know what they will do in an instant, so be on the guard.

With the leaves turning and showing what is on the way, it makes one know just how short the summers are and that we should enjoy them while we can. I see signs for bus trips for the foliage and it is turning quite a lot in places but will still be a little while before it reaches the peak of color. I love the fall colors and wouldn't mind having them stuck around longer than they do. Such beauty isn't found in all the land so we should appreciate it the more for that.

Have a good weekend and take care. Too many auto accidents reported and it makes one wonder what has happened to the good drivers! Where are they now?

GOLDBERG - BOHR

Kenneth Alden Bohr and the Rev. Gwyneth Griffin Bohr announce the marriage of their daughter, Katherine Alden Bohr, to Eric Paul Goldberg, on Aug. 22, at their home on Chapman Street in Bethel.

It was quite a family affair. The bride, in a soft pink wedding gown with a train, was escorted by her father, married by her mother, and attended by her sisters, Gretchen Bohr Courage and Sarah Bohr Alexander. Flower boys and girls were her nieces, Emily Courage and Meredith Alexander; her nephews, Stephen Courage, Eric's nephew, Danny Goldberg; the bride's godson, Ned Holes, and also friends' children, Alex Lynaugh and Margaux Brown. The ring bearer was an old friend, Emily Tucker Brown. The best man was the groom's brother, Andrew Goldberg.

Many friends and family participated in the wedding in the garden, the reception in the house, and the dancing in the barn. Although the Bohrs have not been in Bethel very long, Kathy commented "I wouldn't have wanted to be married any place else."

As part of its educational program for elders, Maine's Cooperative Extension Service provides an opportunity for mature workers and employers to discover each other. The Senior Community Service Project establishes paid, part-time on the job training experiences at non-profit agencies for certain income eligible residents over 55 years of age.

The Bethel Area Health Center is pleased to announce the addition of Rose Dyer to its staff in conjunction with this program. Rose is familiar to many Bethel area residents as she worked 14½ years for Brooks Bros. and eight years for the IGA.

A graduate of Norway High School, Rose comes to the Center with a wealth of knowledge and skills that she has acquired through the years and all look forward to working with her.

Adult Ed offers parenting courses

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer several courses to provide training in parenting skills, according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell. These include You and Your Child—Exploring Parenting aimed at parents of infants through age 9. This course uses the course materials developed by the national Head Start organization, and emphasizes communication, discipline and family activities. A wealth of resource materials are provided. Donna Morton, of the West Bethel Children's Center, is the teacher. The class will be held on Tuesday evenings at the Center, from 6 to 8, for six weeks, starting Oct. 6. The cost is $7.50.

STEP: Systematic Training for Effective Parenting is a structured course for the parents of pre-school through middle school-age children including fundamental skills of parenting such as understanding the goals of misbehavior, knowing the difference between "good parenting" and responsible parenting, using the language to encouragement, effective listening, offering alternatives not advice, effective discipline, meeting as a family, and developing confidence as a parent. Lauri Hoch, a resident of West Bethel and a former elementary guidance counselor in Massachusetts public schools, will be the instructor for this daytime class, on Thursday mornings at the Congregational Church in Bethel, from 9 to 11, for eight weeks, starting Sept. 24. The cost is $7.50, plus a book fee of $7.50.

Mrs. Moch will also offer STEP-Teen, a new STEP program, for parents of junior high and high school youth, to be offered at Telstar on Wednesday evenings for eight weeks, from 7 to 9, starting Sept. 23. The cost is $7.50, plus a book fee of $7.50. Lauri Hoch is available to lead additional STEP and STEP-Teen courses. If you are aware of a need for a course for a special population, such as a parents group, or in one of the other

Adult ed. courses utilize talents of area residents

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer several courses this fall which make use of unique talents of area residents who are instructing the courses. "One of the best aspects of local adult education programming is offering a forum for the sharing of unique skills and interests possessed by residents of the area," stated Cathy Newell, director of Adult and Community Education for SAD #44.

Monique Rolfe will again offer a course in Conversational French. This is an afternoon class at the Telstar library for intermediate and advanced level students and will meet on Mondays from 2 to 4. New students who are interested in joining this class should contact Madame Rolfe to determine if the level is appropriate for them.

Jazz and Swing Music: A retrospective of the 30's and 40's Big Band Era will be the topic of a course with Ed Hitchcock at Telstar on Monday evenings. Mr.

SAD #44 towns, please call the Adult Ed. office.

Hitchcock has an extensive collection of recordings, and has presented radio programs and a very successful one-session program on a similar topic during the Cabin Fever Special Term of adult education last winter. The current class should be interesting to anyone with an appreciation for or an interest in the "Big Band" era.

A Maine State Library course for librarians and library workers entitled Developing Library Collections will be given by Mary Valentine of Bethel on Monday afternoons at the Telstar library, starting in October. Registration forms for this class have been sent to area libraries, or may be obtained at the adult education office at Telstar Regional High School.

The Androscoggin Valley: An Historical Survey will cover the main themes in the history of the Androscoggin watershed from paleo-Indians to the present. Paul McGuire, Dean of Students and Chairman of the History Department at Gould Academy will teach this class at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Monday evenings starting Sept. 21. Special focus will be given to economic changes which periodically altered the cultural and political patterns which had evolved in earlier times. Slides, readings, lectures and discussions will be used in presenting the material, which will provide an excellent background for the current local interest in the Androscoggin River as a local resource.

Students will explore art history and learn new ways of seeing more in paintings in Art Appreciation course for beginners and those with experience. Beckie Bailey will teach this class at the Bethel Library on Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 4. Those for whom this is a first class in art history will receive special introductions at the start of each afternoon session.

To enroll in these courses or any of the other 70 courses or programs listed in the Fall 1987 Course Guide, call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The first sets of volunteers, Mac and Bunny MacMunn and Ed Hitchcock and brother-in-law, Chris Thatcher, are off to man the Bethel region's exhibit in the Maine Building at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. In addition to promoting the region and talking about our industry, the volunteers will be selling Maine Woodsman's Weathersticks to cover all the expenses incurred in lodging, feeding and giving a gas allowance to the volunteers. In other words, the project is self-supporting so that no money is taken from our treasury. In fact we hope to make a little money. Rick and Ellen Whitney and Barb and Mike Brown will be volunteers at the fair over the weekend.

A mailing was done this past week of survey to get feedback of the businesses in the Bethel and Oxford Hills areas of the economic impact of the Route 26 corridor. The results will be revealed to the Route 26 Corridor Committee, of which Executive Director Robin Zinchuk is a member, and the Maine D.O.T. All are encouraged to send their surveys in.

The board of directors met last Thursday—several issues were discussed. The directors regrettably voted to disband the Blue Cross/Blue Shield project due to lack of interest.

We charged the fund-raising committee to develop a fund-raiser for the Blue Mountains Arts and Crafts Festival on Oct. 10 and 11. The chamber has also been asked to provide a luncheon on Oct. 1 for a group of senior citizens at the Dr. Moses Mason House. A committee is being formed for the project.

Robin attended the annual meeting of the Maine Association of Chamber Executives where she obtained a lot of useful information as to what is happening in chamber work across the state. She put in a plug to have the spring meeting of the group in Bethel next May 19 and 20.

The community relations committee is compiling information to produce an area welcome booklet sometime next year. Any ideas are welcome. Contact person is Ernestine Riley, 665-2226.

Cathy Newell reported that the results of the Economic Outlook Training Needs Survey will be available later this month. The response of more than 130 area businesses was great. Thanks to all who cooperated!

The Bethel Area Reservation Service is still looking for an employee to answer the phone. Contact Dick Fain or Peggy Wright. If you're interested.

See separate article on the breakfast meeting, scheduled for Oct. 1.

Notes from the

Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a passage on the great composer, Ludwig Van Beethoven (1770-1827):

"While the standing and popularity of most other composers wax or wane in successive generations, Beethoven's towering stature has always claimed the allegiance both of musicians and of the musical public, in whose hearts his stirring and passionate works have won an unshakable place."

The museum is now closed.

Local artists/craftspeople teaching adult ed. courses

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program includes a number of courses this fall designed to provide opportunities of adults to obtain instruction and practice in several artistic areas, which offer ample outlets for individual creativity. Instructing these courses are several extremely talented local artists and craftspeople.

Back in the SAD #44 line-up of fall courses is Stained Glass, which includes project design and lead and foil work for beginners and those with experience. Students may design and make a project of their choice from a sun-catcher to a lamp or window, in this course on Monday evenings at Telstar with Robin Fraser of Newry as instructor. Mrs. Fraser received her training with Bob Grover, and has been teaching for four years in the SAD #44 program. She displays and sells her own work at craft fairs, and has assisted many of her students in producing items of exceptional quality for their homes.

Paper-Making is a new course for 1987 in adult education and will include exploration of basic papermaking procedures including Japanese methods and a variety of techniques and materials. Use of color and materials to achieve iridescence and textures will be explored in a 3-session course with Sarah Chapman of Bethel on Tuesday evenings at Telstar. This course will introduce a new art form to the area, and, according to the instructor, allows great creativity using quite simple methods and inexpensive supplies.

Drawing courses were very successful last year in SAD #44's program during both the fall and winter terms, with members of one class even meeting informally during the winter between class sessions. Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell expressed delight at having both drawing teachers return to staff this fall, offering adult students the choice of morning or evening classes. Drawing, including contour line, shading and perspective will be taught on Thursday evening at Telstar by Arla Patch, who had just joined the SAD #44 staff as a teacher in the Creative and Talented program. Basic drawing skills are stressed, but the class welcomes students of varied levels of experience. Ms. Patch's drawing class last year had an excellent show of their class work at the Telstar Christmas Fair, and Ms. Patch has had many years of art teaching experience, and shows of her own work in a variety of media.

Sue Wright will teach a Drawing class at the Bethel House community room on Tuesday evenings using varied media. This class received special commendation from the Department of Educational

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses-Mason House

Once again SAD #44 Adult and Community Education and the Bethel Historical Society are cooperating on another historical tour. This one will be to one of Maine's earliest towns—York, one of the most historically significant communities in the state. The town was first settled in 1630 under a Royal Charter from Charles I to his friend, Sir Fernando Gorges. Dreaming of a great and marvelous city to rise out of the wilderness, Gorges had the town chartered in 1640 and named it Gorgeana after himself. In 1652, Massachusetts obtained control of the Province of Maine, and the city of Gorgeana was reduced to the status of a town and renamed York. The town was a prosperous community during the 18th century and served as the Provincial capital of Maine. Here was located the King's Prison as well as numerous wharves and warehouses active in the lucrative West Indies trade.

Surplus agricultural goods and lumber were shipped to Great Britain and her colonies, providing the town with a vibrant economy and steady growth. The conflicts between France and England in the 1790s and the American Embargo ruined the economy. The town did not prosper again until after the Civil War when York developed a fashionable tourist trade.

The tour will take place on Saturday, Oct. 10. A SAD #44 school bus will leave from in front of the Dr. Moses Mason House at 7 a.m., and make stops at the mill parking lot in Locke Mills and at the Village Store in Bryant Pond. The bus is scheduled to arrive in York at 10 a.m. at the Old York Historical Society, where tours of five buildings have been arranged. In the morning the group will visit the school house, Emerson-Wilcox house, Jefford's Tavern. There will be a break for lunch and then two more sites will be visited—the Perkins house and the John Hancock warehouse. Anyone wishing to go on this trip is urged to register early as seating is limited. The fee is $12 which covers transportation and admissions. Please call SAD #44 Adult and Community Education at 824-2780 or the Bethel Historical Society at 824-2908. Watch this column for further details about the sites to be visited or call the historical society if more information is needed.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe spoke at the the September meeting of the Oxford County League of Historical Societies. Held in Hartford, the meeting appropriately commemorated the bicentenary of the U.S. Constitution. Dr. Howe described New England's reaction to the document which became public 200 years ago on Sept. 17. He provided details on New England Society in the 18th century and attempted to explain some of the reasons why New England appeared to be one of the most hostile sections of the nation to the document. Following his presentation, Lorraine Greig of Hartford Heritage, spoke about the town's Vietnam veterans who were honored at the meeting. The next meeting of the league will be in January at Dixfield.

and Cultural Services review team last year for its positive atmosphere. Mrs. Wright, well-known as a local artist, welcomes new and veteran students to her class.

Hand Lettering: An introduction to calligraphy with Monica Mann as the instructor will be taught on Tuesday evenings at the new Woodstock School in Bryant Pond. Ms. Mann exhibits and sells many types of crafts at area shows and has taught drawing in adult education in the past. This course will present an introduction to the subject in 32-hour sessions.

Andover to host courses in adult ed. program

The SAD #4 Adult and Community Education program will offer several courses in Andover during the fall term, ranging in subjects from Computers to Basketry. Those interested in enrolling in the Andover courses may call either the Adult Education office at Telstar, 824-2700, or the Andover School, 332-4381.

There will be an eight-week Christmas Craft class in Andover. Taught by Joyce Frazier at her home on Tuesday evenings. Four different projects will be made, including a puffy Christmas wreath, a Christmas tree table decoration, Mr. and Mrs. Santa ornaments, and a final project to be selected by the class. A supply list is available from Mrs. Frazier.

Introduction to Computers will provide a four-week introduction for the beginner, covering the operation and uses of Apple personal computers and introducing students to wordprocessing, spreadsheets and file programs using Apple works. This is designed for the adult who has had no, or very little previous exposure to computers, and will be taught by Sue Wyman on Mondays at the Andover School.

Sharon Hutchins will offer a course in Basic Calligraphy, including beginning hand lettering techniques just in time for special Christmas projects. Mrs. Hutchins emphasizes that this is an introductory course. She is a member of the SAD #4 Adult and Community Education Advisory Council and operates a popular craft shop in Andover.

Students will make several different types of baskets under the direction of Louise Seames, of Locke Mills, in a Basketry course to be offered at the Andover School on Thursday nights starting on Sept. 24. Mrs. Seames has become a proficient basketmaker and is selling her work at craft fairs and in area shops. She learned her craft in the adult education classes of Jan Todd, of Bethel.

Carol Emery will offer Exercise and Aerobics classes on Monday and Thursday nights in the Andover School, with an exercise session from 7 to 8 and aerobics from 8 to 9. Classes may be taken separately or together.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

Hidden in Jesus' parable of the workers in the vineyard (Matthew 20:1-16) is a lesson about the free grace of God.

As we read it, we tend quickly to identify with those who worked all day in the vineyard—especially if we devote a lot of effort to our job, our community or our church. Surely we deserve more than those who work less, we think. Don't we have a right to complain?

But as Jesus warns in the beginning, this is a parable of the Kingdom, a little picture of the way things will be when our prayer "Thy will be done," is answered.

If the boss in Jesus' story is God, the words are addressed to us: "Friend, I am not being unfair to you. Didn't you agree to work for a denarius?... Don't I have the right to do what I want with my money? Or are you envious because I am generous?"

How about it? Are we getting what was agreed upon, and in the case of God's blessings, more than we could have hoped for? Is God being unfair, or is it our envy that puts our noses out of joint when we see someone enjoy apparently better fortune than we have? Do we want God to be free?

We are glad that God was free to protect the Israelites of old from the action of the Pharaoh. We rejoice that God was free to preserve God's love, acting through Jesus and the apostles, from the attempts of Pilate and the religious authorities to squelch that love.

Is God not still free today to protect the poor and oppressed from the actions of powerful rulers? In fact, should not we, as people who know God's love, be pleading with today's presidents and legislators to meet the basic human needs of people, here or in other countries?

Given our shortcomings in worship and service, perhaps church people should thank the freedom of God for the very existence of the church. Indeed, given the world's nuclear stockpiles and international quarrels, the fact that humankind has not yet blown up the earth could be due to the actions of an "unfair" but infinitely kind and free God.

The parables of the workers in the vineyard, at the very least, points up the free but fallible humans to be humble before the freedom of God. It may mean that to our human eyes, as Jesus says, "The last will be first, and the first will be last." But as Donald W. Shriver, Jr. ("The Christian Century," Vol. 104, No. 23, p. 690) put it, "The freedom of God transcends every human freedom, and this truth is the hope of the world."

Planning meeting
Thursday evening for Community Conference

There will be a planning meeting on Thursday, Sept. 17, for the Community Conference which will be sponsored by SAD 44 Adult and Community Education and the Bethel/NTL Liaison Committee on Oct. 30 at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. The Community Conference will be a day long opportunity for individuals interested in the future of the SAD 44 area to come together to discuss issues involved in planning for the future and to devise action plans for work on many topics. The conference will be facilitated by Eva Schindler-Rainmann, a nationally-renowned consultant and long-time NTL member. Some of the issues which were identified at a preliminary session held in August of 1986 were development pressure, preservation of small town character, education, economic development, are expected to form the agenda for the October 30 day, with the possible addition of other priority items. Cost to attend the conference will be modest, with the goal being to achieve a large attendance of people interested in achieving positive and productive outcomes.

The planning meeting will be held at Telstar Regional High School on Thursday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. Volunteers are needed to work during the month before the conference on publicity and outreach to insure that a broad range of interests are represented at the conference. Help will also be needed on Oct. 29 and 30 with set up and clean up and at the conference itself as recorders. Anyone interested in helping with the conference is urged to attend the meeting Thursday evening or to call the Adult Education Office 824-2780.

WEST PARIS SENIOR CITIZENS
The West Paris Senior Citizens held their monthly meeting on Sept. 1 at the Legion Hall with 24 present. After the potluck dinner, Joanne Young, the West Paris postmistress, gave an interesting talk on the history of the post office, along with information regarding mailing packages and letters, and various postal services and products available.

At the meeting it was voted to invite the West Summer Senior Citizens to attend the Thanksgiving Dinner in West Paris on Nov. 3, members signed a get well card to send to Rupert Ellingswood, and it was announced that Lillian Kilby has moved to Norway. Her address is Apt. B-12, Rustfield Village.

Next month, on Oct. 6, the group will eat lunch at the Goldstreet Restaurant in South Paris. Anyone needing a ride should be at the Legion Hall at 11 a.m.

SWOAM annual field day
at Weston farm Sept. 19

The Small Woodlot Owners Association of Maine (SWOAM) are holding their annual field day on Saturday, Sept. 19, at Bill Weston's farm on Rte. 2, between Rumford Point and Rumford Center. Activities start with free coffee and doughnuts at 8:30 a.m., with the program starting at 9:30 a.m., rain or shine.

In addition to the usual pruning, thinning and harvesting demonstrations, several new, intriguing systems and equipment will be displayed and shown under working conditions. These include a Dimension portable sawmill, two home-made skidder/forwarders, a medium-sized mobile chipper and brush saws. Availability of owner management plans will be discussed and made available to interested landowners. The walking tour even includes a visit to a huge blueberry nest and areas of erosion control on woods roads.

The morning program includes some talking and some walking. Lunch will be available at noon, and many exhibits and static demonstrations are planned from 1-3 p.m. All landowners and the public are invited.

Office skills courses offered by adult ed.

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program for Fall 1987 includes a number of courses of interest to those who are interested in developing or refining their office skills. These include Typing, which will provide instruction and practice in the use of IBM wheelwriters and other electronic typewriters. The text used will be Keyboarding/Typewriting and the class will be taught by Cheryl Lord of the Telstar Regional High School business department. The course is appropriate for beginners or for those who need brush up work, and will be held on Tuesday evenings at Telstar. Students who do not have a typewriter at home may arrange for practice time in addition to regular class hours.

Accounting I will be team taught by Bruce Powell and Cindy Moxcey of the SAD #44 Central Office staff and this course will cover the accounting cycle in its basic form—for those in a small office or a home business. Mr. Powell has taught accounting courses for Husson College and UMF in Rumford and both he and Mrs. Moxcey have a broad range of business and office experience to bring to the course which will meet on Wednesdays at Telstar.

Computer courses are very popular throughout the year according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell. The current course offerings include Introduction to Computers, a 5-week introduction for the beginner, covering the operation and uses of Apple personal computers. Students need no prior acquaintance with computers and will be introduced to word processing, spreadsheet and data base functions, as well as learning how to load and run software. Holly Sysko will teach this class on Thursday evenings at Telstar, and Susan

SUPPORT GROUP FOR YOUNG MOTHERS IN BETHEL

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, Sept. 16 (tonight), at Telstar Regional High School in Judi Brown's resource room. The topic is "Assertiveness" presented by Patty Saarinen from Mountain Valley Training. Becoming assertive involves standing up for your personal rights and expressing your thoughts, feelings, and preferences in a way that is direct, honest, appropriate, and does not violate the rights of others.

There will be an open discussion after the workshop. Those finding transportation or child care a problem should call Judi Brown at 824-2136 (days), or 824-2945 (evenings) and let her know how the group can help.

Coordinators and facilitators of the group are Judi Brown, Telstar teacher; Susan Hanley, VISTA/Community Concepts, Inc.; and Kathy Sutton, public health nurse.

Wyman will teach a section on Monday evenings in Andover at the elementary school.

For those who have some prior knowledge of personal computers, a course in Computer Uses—covering use of accounting, file and word processing programs, with Appleworks will be taught on Wednesdays at Telstar by Linda Davis of the Telstar faculty. This course is designed for those who have taken the Introduction to Computers course in the past, or who have a basic knowledge and will run for 10 weeks.

To enroll in these courses, or in any of the 70 courses and programs offered by SAD #44 this fall, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

State police urge caution by motorists

Motorists are being urged to use extra caution with the coming of the fall season.

The arrival of autumn necessitates more driving during the hours of darkness. State law and common sense require the dimming of headlights whenever meeting another vehicle in order to avoid blinding the driver and, very possibly causing a serious crash.

Demers said, "Fog conditions are particularly hazardous during school bus hours and call for exceptional care on the part of motorists, such as reduced driving speed and allowing more space between vehicles because of lowered visibility."

Heavy fog conditions require headlights to be turned low beam rather than just the use of parking lights. Maine law states: Lights must be turned on any time "due to insufficient light or unfavorable atmospheric condition, caused by fog or otherwise, or when persons in vehicles on the highway are not clearly discernible for a distance of 500 feet ahead."

Demers said, "Fog conditions are particularly hazardous during school bus hours and call for exceptional care on the part of motorists, such as reduced driving speed and allowing more space between vehicles because of lowered visibility."
